Step 8
The best discipline in life is Self-Discipline

“Made a list of all persons we had harmed, and became willing to make amends to them all.”

Through discipline comes freedom.
–Aristotle

Tradition 8
“Overeaters Anonymous should remain forever non-professional, but our service centers may employ special workers.”

Fellowship

“Abstinence is a new life, not in theory but in practice. It means following suggestions, listening to someone who knows more than I do about living abstently.”

–For Today, page 203

The old me always knew the answers, always had the good ideas, never listened or followed anyone’s suggestions. It was self-will running riot. Now, when I read something in OA literature, hear something at a meeting, or my sponsor shares something with me, I take it to heart and search for a place to fit it into my life. I reflect on how I can make it work for me, how I can adapt it.

With this disease of compulsive overeating, I cannot afford to be selective. Whatever is presented to me is presented for a reason, and my job is to absorb it. My OA recovery cannot be stagnant nor can my progress be put on hold. I cannot control this progressive disease of compulsive eating.

Keeping myself open to other overeaters’ perspectives and to God’s will keeps me alive. Thank you, God, for the insight and experiences shared by others. The circle of life for me is Step work and abstinence from compulsive overeating. I apply what I hear to my daily routine, thus becoming and staying spiritually sound, emotionally secure, and physically fit.

HELLO OLD FRIEND

Hello, old friend. Let me assure you I have not forsaken you. Don’t worry you’ll be lonely when you leave here. I am here. I will always wait for you. You know where to find me even when others don’t. I hide and I wait. Don’t believe what they say for you know I am your friend. I am here when you need comfort, when you need help. If you then you feel you can’t go on. I am here to numb those feelings so you will not have to be tortured with terrible emotions. Just stay close and I can and will fix you instantly with no waiting. Don’t worry about calling people or going to those meetings. Do you remember how you chose me in the beginning? Through the years we have become so intimate. I trust you will chose me again and not give up this closeness we have known. We have had such wonderful times together, riding life to the highest highs. No one and nothing else has ever done that for you. Remember the good times, not the bummer. Keep the memories alive. We belong together. You’ll never be happy without me. You’ll never be satisfied sleeping with another. I want to be the first thing you awaken to each morning and the last thing you touch each night. No one will believe what a complete lover you are, how much you are devoted to me, how you come back for more and more. I love to watch you; watch all the things you do with me. I deeply appreciate how much you have sacrificed for me – jobs, family, friends, health, money. You always put me first, easily taking time off work for me. You gave up dreams and hopes. You put me before your family, even the ones you love most. You threw people and things away for me if they came between us. That makes me know how much you treasure me. I can’t tell you how grateful I am for your loyalty and respect you have shown as I remember those beautiful things you have sacrificed to devote yourself to me. Don’t ever despair. You can always depend on me. I wait for you; I will always wait. For I am your friend and lover!

I AM YOUR ADDICTION

MY NAME IS PAMELA COMPULSIVE OVEREATER FOOD ADDICT

I grew up in a dysfunctional home; my parents were prominent members of our church. Both heavy alcoholic drinkers with schizophrenic and narcissistic personalities.

At home, my brother and I never knew what was to come next. My parents had a song for me “fatty, fatty, 2X4 can’t fit through the kitchen door,” the guilt and shame was emotionally devastating. At age 11 my father committed suicide which my brother at age 9 and I witnessed. We were now left with an emotionally and dysfunctional mother. After my father’s death, the only way she could cope was to put my brother and I in separate private schools. I would sneak down to the school kitchen and steal food from the school’s pantry, because I was restless, irritable and discontent. Food was my only comfort.

My mother had abandoned me. She would show up at school on visiting day right before my bedtime and think that they would break the rules just for her. My mother fed me a lot to keep me quiet, food for sickness, food for health. Food was a way to show her love growing up, no matter how dysfunctional my home was my mother was a great cook and an excellent seamstress. I didn’t take her observation. I’m not a bad cook I’m not as creative as she was and as far as being seamstress goes; even with the guide of sewing machine it didn’t come out looking like the pattern.

Through the years, I realized I had an alcohol problem supplanted by a desire to stuff myself to create the sense of comfort and well-being.

I married my first husband at age 16 I was thin at the time and he wanted me to stay that way. Our son was born when I was 17 and I had to lose the weight quickly, he didn’t want a fat wife. So, I would stop eating until I was thin again. Even thin I would look in the mirror and see fat. When I wouldn’t eat I would end up in the hospital frequently having to be hydrated from starving myself to stay thin. It was a dysfunctional relationship to say the least. We divorced after I had run away with our son, which he never saw again. He died of the disease of alcoholism. Not knowing I was carrying my compulsion for food, my weight was fluctuating. I didn’t eat so I could lose weight; I blamed it on my alcohol. I got into another alcoholic relationship, married and divorced with no children after four years. During this time, nothing changed.

I had stopped drinking alcohol for about three years, food became my major source of comfort and my weight was abnormal even though I was staying thin.

Another relationship I was in, was with an alcoholic married man for the next three years. Nothing changed, I was seeking relief in food, alcohol and relationships. I was 29, my son at age 11 was put in to school for the welfare as I was now an unfit parent. I was a failure all that my first husband (his father) had told me was coming true. I drank and ate it didn’t take me long before I gained a lot of weight and hit my bottom.

The welfare had me go to an orientation program so I would go to work. I was pursued and inspired by a gal sitting across a table at this orientation. She would always ask me if I thought I had a problem with alcohol. She was the first to inspire me to do something about my addiction.

That was 1975, in 1976 I walked through the doors of my first Twelve Step program very sick and had no self-worth. I was looking at the Twelve Steps in “The Little Red Book” – I never realized that I was an overeater until looking at the Fourth Step in AA. I looked at the 7 deadly sins, and there was gluttony hitting right between my eyes. I didn’t like what I saw, I was introduced to O.A. about thirty years or so ago. I walked in to OA on my own and had a lot of weight to lose. There was an OA meeting not too far from the AA meeting I was attending. Because I was unemployed and unemployable I attended as many OA meetings as AA meetings and was working both programs. (Talk about confusion early in recovery) I was in OA to lose weight to be attractive to the male society. I was in OA about six years lost 100lbs and about three years into abstinence I married husband number three. While on our honeymoon I became very ill with keratosis. While shopping in the village of Bermudia, in one of the Shoppe’s, I passed out under a clothes rack. At my husband’s dismay, I was sick for the rest of the time. I had called the doctor from Bermuda so when we arrived at home I had an appointment. When I went the doctor confirmed the diagnoses of keratosis. He had informed me I had been abstaining from foods, that I was depriving my body of vital nutrients. As I brought these foods back, my weight gain was rapid.

In the meantime, I was diagnosed with Candida. Now came some different foods that I had to abstain from. I lost weight and maintained a healthy weight for many years.

I had no program to speak of. I read the Big Book over a thousand times and I couldn’t find the directions that everyone spoke of that was in the Big Book. I was an insane lady and almost lost my husband, son and two grandchildren.

In the last 40yrs I have had a couple of break-downs one ended me in a rehab facility. I was admitted for crisis intervention. That’s where I started to understand the principles of the Twelve Step program. It brought out all that anger, resentment and fear. I was diagnosed with PDSF from the molestation and rape I had experienced as a young girl and early adulthood the first time that I ever felt free from my demons. I was still having flash back and I learned how to accept the flash backs and start living the principles.

We moved to Florida about 20 years ago. Since I had no structure, and although I still had the Twelve Steps to live by in another program. I was miserable. I was eating out of control and I was rapidly gaining, I had gained 50lbs my first month here and I was emotionally unstable. I could not fathom the idea of the insanity around food and what food was doing to me physically, mentally, and spiritually.

Quotes from “Abstinence” Book

My HP gives me the strength to deal with what may happen in the next twenty-four hours. Thank you, OA and HP for guiding me along the road of recovery to a place where I can support others as well as take care of my own needs.

Before finding OA, I viewed the world in black and white extremes: Everything was either wonderful or awful, perfect or a total disaster. People were either good or bad, and I loved them or hated them. I was either wealthy or poverty stricken, and of course, if I wasn’t thin, I was fat.

Yet I kept going to meetings. There was nowhere else for me to go. They said that I wasn’t a bad person trying to become good, but a sick person trying to become well. Now I’m learning to separate issues from personalities.

As an abstinent compulsive overeater, I always enjoy being comfortably hungry before each meal, and the feeling of satisfaction afterward.

I’m grateful for the support of a wonderful sponsor and friends in the OA program who are there to listen to me and keep me grounded as I experience different levels of recovery.

I’m grateful for my own willingness to listen to all my different hungers and the ability to differentiate between my body’s needs and my disease, which tells me I’m too “full of feelings” to have room for healthy and abstinent meals.

I feel better about myself and have no intention of depriving myself of delicious, well-balanced supper – or better yet, a well-balanced life.

Carrying the Message

Carrying the message is more than just working with others. It also includes other service, service of Intergroup and at Region. I have to give it away in order to keep it; if we expect to grow worldwide, it will only happen if we get involved outside our own little circle. Get involved in helping others, go to the Florida State Convention where it is all about recovery. Go to a SOAR Convention and learn the business of OA and what it costs to keep it funded. Get involved with Intergroup, that is being of service outside sponsoring, open yourself to what else goes on in the world of recovery. There is a whole lot of other things happening out there. It’s really a very big picture. I have a lot of footwork to do. Get involved in a committee. That is where our work is accomplished. Please help me spread the word and to help some other tortured soul. This is a privilege I have been given and it is an expression of gratitude for me to pass it on every way I can. The miracle of service is when I do it, I find more available to me than I realized. The gifts are not only free, but priceless, it is through service that the greatest gifts are found. I am responsible.

God, give me the ability to see clearly the borderlines in life and the wisdom not to cross them. Help me never to stray over the narrow lines between:

Helpfulness and Interference
Self-confidence and Arrogance
Love and Possessiveness
Enthusiasm and Fanaticism
Frankness and Tactlessness
Admiration and Idolatry
Enjoyment and Excess
Self-reliance and Obstinacy
Compassion and Sentimentality
Righteous Indignation and Vengefulness
Self-awareness and Self-centeredness

Pinellas Traditions Intergroup - 7th Tradition

The 7th Tradition states, "Every OA group ought to be fully self supporting, declining outside contributions."

Available online, local OA groups and members can now send a contribution using a secure site via PayPal.
I became friends with a gal who was almost as overweight as I was. Then all sudden she was losing weight and lighting up spiritually. I would ask her how she was doing what she was doing. The first few times my ears kind of closed. Then I ran in to her one night and I was open to the idea of structure. She inspired me to attend the OA/HOW meeting on Thursday night and I asked her to meet me there. She was my inspiration to bringing me back to OA. Over the years shame and guilt were my constant companion.

SHAME: Refers to how you feel about who you are. The confrontation with shame, although also set in motion by OA-H.O.W.’s first step, proves trickier – and, for most, more difficult. Again, the OA program – all of it, but especially Steps Two, Six, Seven and Ten – suggests shame’s solution. It is Overeaters Anonymous as a fellowship that makes real this solution, but it is only in the conjunction with the Twelve Steps as a program that the full benefits of O.A. as a fellowship can be realized – made real.

I just didn’t care; I had set myself up a long time ago. It was said if you have the twelve principles in your life you can let go of any devise, alcohol, smoking, eating, gambling, etc. That didn’t work for me, I need the support of the O.A. fellowship, and the twelve principles to practice in my life.

When I think about my compulsive overeating, there is nothing glorious. My disease wants me to feel isolated, different, and persecuted. Addiction makes it easy for me to notice the negative, no matter how slight and completely ignore the positive, and no matter how large! If “it” can keep me away from meetings, keep me from gaining knowledge of “itself,” “it” can remain strong – and in control of my life, while I am fighting for mine. Talk about persecution! My disease is my biggest “persecutor,” intent on diminishing me until I am nothing but walking, breathing testament to its power over me.

Food is a product of amazing versatility, it will remove the clothes off my back, if I by chance use it in sufficient quantitie; food will remove furniture from the home, rugs from the floor, food from the table, lining from the stomach, vision from the eyes, and judgment from the mind. Food will also remove good reputations, good jobs, food friends, happiness from children’s hearts, sanity, freedom, spouses, relationships, and my ability to adjust and live with my fellow man, even life itself.

As remover, food as no equal! Food Always Lied to ME!

I ate for Courage ... and woke up night after night horrified.
I ate for Sophistication ... and became crude.
I ate to find peace ... and ignited a war within myself.

My “spirit of other days” is doom and gloom, I ate because I was angry, sad, depressed, or even happy, it didn’t matter. I don’t look at those days as the “spirit of other days.” Although at times I do think about certain comfort foods I think of the doom and gloom and choose to eat my food plan for the day.

I feel like I belong in the OA/HOW. I need the structure of the OA/HOW format. I need to be accountable for my actions and my food. Thanks to the sponsors and my Creator, I have another day of Abstinence and living the principles in my daily life.

TO PUT THESE THINGS IN MY BODY IS INSANE AND MY ACTING OUT IS THE INSANE PART, NOT BEING INSANE. THE FOOD IS A DRUG FOR ME. I HAVE NOT HAD TO ACT OUT BECAUSE OF THE STUFF BEING PUT IN MY BODY. When one overeater shares their experience, strength and hope with another, they share the true nature of their malady. When introduced to O.A. that overeater will never be the same. Always in the back of their mind is that overeater sharing the wonder of the next bite or binge will be the last. I went to counseling for a very long time. I still too this day have one on standby.

Each day that I live an abstinant day is a grateful day. I have (with my Creator and Sponsors) a day of peace and joy even when I don’t feel good. I am not dwelling on how I feel, emotionally, spiritually, or physical. I am in my Creator’s hands.

I like the foot step poem, when I only saw one set of foot prints, and I asked God why he had abandon me, His reply was when it was I who was carrying you.

Spirituality of many faiths were insufficient to produce a feeling of self-worth. Only to discover that my bondage doesn’t come from outside sources. All hope seemed lost, but where there is still life, there is hope.

For me faith didn’t come easily. For others, especially if we have experienced betrayal it may be more difficult. Sometimes I must exhaust all my mental and physical "disease" before I will risk believing in a higher Power.

To recover, I cannot afford to stand back, hoping for "cures," and avoid deliberate action because of my lack of faith. I lived with my condition for many years, spending my resources on promising "cures" without success. When I came to believe in God, a power greater than myself, and have the faith to take hold of my own recovery, I will find the healing power I have been looking for. I have come to understand through the second step that the Power greater than I was expressed in the love and patient kindness of the presence of God within the Twelve Step program; fellowship that gave me the opportunity to restore me to an emotional and mental balance. Faith is the key whether it is blind faith or as it has been said, believe because I believe. Don’t quit before the Miracle happens. Miracle is God’s Intervention.

I EARNESTLY BELIEVE THAT GOD EXISTS, THAT I MATTER TO HIM AND THAT HE HAS THE POWER TO HELP ME TO RECOVER.

Now in closing I have been asked to speak some on 'Inspired' ...

I have been inspired by God’s direction thru inspiration, intuitive thought and decision as found in the Big Book of Alcoholics Anonymous:

INSPIRED:
To fill with an animating, quickening or exalting influence: His courage inspired his followers, sponsorship
To produce or arouse (a feeling, thought, etc.): to inspire confidence in others, fellowship
To fill or affect with a specified feeling, thought, etc.: to inspire a person with distrust, strength/hope/experience
To influence or impel: Competition inspired her to greater efforts. Promises
To animate, as an influence, feeling, thought or the like, does: They were inspired by a belief in a better future. Rocketed into the 4th dimension – happy/joyous/free
To communicate or suggest by a divine or supernatural influence: writings inspired by God. Prayer and meditation
To guide or control by a divine influence. OA-H.O.W.
